CONGRESS MEETS TO-DAY.

The Members Will Hear the President's Message.

An Idea of Some of the Bills to Come Up in the Session.

Nothing Will Be Done in Either House of Congress To-day.

Washington, Dec. 6. It is not likely that anything will be done in either house of Congress to-morrow except to exchange congratulations or condolence as the case may be over the results of the elections and listen to the President's message.

When the last session closed the House immigration bill had, and now has the right of way in the Senate. It is unfinished business and will be called up pro forma at the expiration of the morning hour, 2 o'clock. Although known as the House bill on the calendar, as reported to the Senate by Mr. Lodge, it is a materially different measure, all House provisions having been stricken out excepting the enacting clause, and a new bill substituted.

The bill will be called up Tuesday by Senators Lodge and Chandler, who desire to push it to a vote as quickly as possible. As the bill came from the House it provided not only for the exclusion of immigrants who could not fill the educational test, but went at some length into the regulation of alien contract labor. Mr. Lodge's substitute provides for an educational test and excludes all persons over 14 years who cannot read and write the language of their native country, or some other language, except that an aged person, not so able, who is a parent or grandparent of an admissible immigrant may accompany or be sent by such immigrant.

For the purpose of establishing the ability of the immigrant to read and write, the creation of five lines from the constitution of the United States is to be used, printed in the various languages of the immigrants in good sized, readable type, known as double small pica. The consular [illegible] cut into five line slips, forms a [illegible] from which the immigrant, having designated the language in which he prefers the test to be made, draws at random and reads and writes down what he has read. Failure to comply with this test means deportation to the country whence the immigrant came at the expense of the steamship company carrying him.

An effort will be made to secure new dates for the consideration of special orders that were not reached during the last session. These measures now coming under the preferred head are Senate bill 1012, to prevent the desecration of the national flag; House bill 3206, to amend the act to prevent the extermination of fur bearing animals of Alaska; House bill 873, to reduce cases in which the penalty of death may be inflicted; the Senate joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of Senators by popular vote.

An important local bill on which there has developed a bitter fight is the Detroit bridge bill, for a bridge across the Detroit river.

In addition to appropriation bills there are several measures that will contend with each other for right of way. Prominent are the bills to refund the Pacific R. R. debt; to admit the territories of New Mexico and Arizona; authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to enlist additional men, now pending in the Senate on motion to reconsider the vote by which it was passed; Mr. Davis' resolution relative to the assertion and enforcement of the Monroe doctrine; bill to facilitate the construction of a cable between this country and Hawaii; providing for the classification and grading of agricultural products and providing for the reorganization of the consular and diplomatic service.

In the House there will be a swearing-in of two members to first engage attention, Heatwer, of Louisiana, and Stokes, of South Carolina.

The death of ex-Speaker Crisp will probably be announced by one of his former colleagues, and after the reading of the President's message the House will adjourn in his honor.

The programme of business for the first week will depend upon developments. Before the week closes, the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill will be reported and placed on the calendar and Friday night there will be the usual session for consideration of private pension bills.

Two Important Subjects.

Washington, Dec. 6. The probable assent of Venezuela to the proposed treaty of arbitration of the British Guiana boundary dispute through the good offices of the United States and the practical conclusion of a general arbitration convention between Great Britain and the United States it is stated will form two of the most important diplomatic documents in the President's message.

What is understood to be a nearly all essential particulars a copy of the preliminary agreement entered into some weeks ago between Secretary Olney and Sir Julian Pauncefote on the Venezuelan matter was made public this morning.

The draft of the proposed treaty is more elaborate than this agreement. It refers to the 50 year occupation of the territory in dispute and embodies other points than those of mere occupancy and political control.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Dec. 6. The water in the river here was stationary today, and while there is no immediate prospect of the flood leaving the city, there probably will be no great destruction of property. The Wisconsin Central depot is badly wrecked and will not be fit for use again.

Moderating Weather Saves Great Destruction.

Menominee, Mich., Dec. 2. Reports from Fischer, Mich., are to the effect that the water in the Menominee river is falling and that moderate weather had the effect of softening the ice so the passage will be cut through the jam. It is believed that danger of further damage is passed.

THE GERMAN CONTROVERSY.

President Likely to Discuss It in His Message.

Washington, Dec. 5. The formal protest of the German government against the proclamation of the President imposing the tonnage tax on German vessels in American ports has been received at the Department of State. The President's reply to the protest and his construction of the grounds on which the United States' action has been taken will, probably be laid before Congress in the message on Monday next.

Germany Protests Against President Cleveland's Step.

Berlin, Dec. 5. The North German Gazette declares that the contention of President Cleveland in regard to the imposition of tonnage dues upon American vessels in German ports is disputed and that Germany has lodged a protest against the President's action in revoking the proclamation of 1888.

Commenting upon President Cleveland's proclamation the National Zeitung says tonnage dues at Hamburg, Bremen and other German ports will surely be increased, but solely for the purpose of improving the harbors for the general benefit of shipping and a bill for such purposes as in America. Foreigners have their own wharves. In Germany, the paper adds, and German shippers must build their own wharves in America. Germany will be deprived of the advantages she obtained in 1888, the sacrifice being imposed upon German ship owners.

The President's assertion that the tonnage dues are levied at German ports, however, is erroneous, as the dues imposed are solely for the use of special port facilities. In conclusion the Gazette expresses the hope that in the interest of the proclamation "even if the cause of Germans in America," the American courts will see that the principle of right and justice is upheld and that meanwhile, Germany may convince America that such an infringement of German rights cannot be accepted.

A CHICAGO SENSATION.

Western Union Officials Indicted but State's Attorney Refused to Draw Indictment.

Chicago, Dec. 5. The grand jury at 5 o'clock voted true bills against the following officers of the Western Union Telegraph Co.: R. C. Clowry, vice-president; F. H. Tubbs, superintendent; W. J. Lloyd, assistant superintendent; W. R. Holligan, E. M. Mulford, managers. The bills were voted as a result of disclosures made yesterday, when it appeared from the evidence given that tickers in use in all the gambling houses of the men formerly noticed have been put in their places by the Western Union Telegraph Co.

A sensation resulted when, after the voting of these bills, State's Attorney Kern positively refused to draw the indictments in accordance with the wishes of the grand jury. For a time the jurors pleaded with the State's attorney to make out the proper papers, but he was deaf to all entreaties.

"There is no special reason for indicting these men," said Kern, "as the evidence against them is, in my opinion, totally insufficient to warrant a conviction and such indictment, if returned, would hardly be worth the paper on which it was written. The grand jury can do as they please but so long as I'm here I shall refuse to have the indictment drawn. They can take the case up again when my successor, Mr. Deneen, takes hold, but I shall not subscribe my name to any such paper."

The grand jury then went to Judge Hutchinson and informed him that they had voted an indictment against the corporation officers, but that the state's attorney had refused to draw it up.

"I cannot find any law covering the case, your honor," said Assistant State Attorney Lynch. "We might as well try to convict a railroad company for hauling goods which had been stolen."

"Well, gentlemen" said Judge Hutchinson, "Mr. Lynch has been drawing indictments for a long time and knows his business. If he says no conviction can be had, I believe he is right. You better reconsider your action."

In accordance with the court's instruction the grand jury returned to their room and the bills voted earlier in the day were all reconsidered.

A NEW PHASE

Assumed by the Big Strike at Hamburg.

Now Passed From Its Initial Stage of a Labor Agitation

To a Movement of Considerable Political Importance.

Berlin, Dec. 6. Passing from its initial phase as a mere industrial agitation in pursuit of higher wages, the strike of the dock laborers at Hamburg and elsewhere has become a matter of political importance. Behind the local organizers of the Hamburg strike, as it has now been revealed, are the executive committee of the socialist party, who are working not so much in the interests of the laborers as in the interests of the social democratic party. The executive committee of the socialist party are now established in headquarters at Hamburg and they have managed to get trades unions throughout Germany to supply funds for the support of the strikers at all Baltic ports.

What is called "labor's common resistance fund" has been formed to which socialists in every great center are contributing. The object of this movement is less to conquer employers than foster socialists. Had the dock laborers at Hamburg been left to themselves they would have speedily settled the dispute with the masters, who proffered to the old employes concessions equal to what the strikers originally demanded, but since the socialist leaders have intervened the demands of the strikers have increased until now the employers find themselves face to face with a real issue, which is that the entire shipping industry of Germany must obey the dictates of the police organization or fight out the supreme battle to the end.

The rejection by the employers of the proposal to submit to arbitration was due to the knowledge by the employers of the fact that the men behind the strikers would not eventually abide by the decision of the arbitration tribunal which, as proposed, conceded only one member to represent the employers. It was not the absence of adequate representation on the tribunal that caused the employers to reject the proposal, but it was their conviction of the futility of the whole proceeding. The movement is now seen to be a combined socialist attack upon German commerce and German capital in which the government will soon be bound to interfere.

The Kaiser strongly favored the earliest settlement until he was shown that socialist politicians were managing the strike, when, it is understood, his majesty advised the home office to await the developments of the situation, but not to interfere. In the meantime Gen. Von Schlewitz was instructed to take full measures to maintain order.

RESTRICTION OF IMMIGRATION.

Efforts to Be Made to Have Congress Pass a Measure.

Washington, Dec. 5. Messrs. Prescott F. Hall, secretary, and John F. Moors, a member of the executive committee of the Immigration restriction league of Boston, are in the city today to urge the passage through the Senate of the Lodge-Corliss bill to restrict immigration by an educational test.

The committee's last report, which shows the effect of immigration upon the United States and the reasons for further restriction, has been printed and a copy will be furnished to each Senator and Representative. Mr. Hall to-day said: "The Lodge-Corliss bill provides that all immigrants more than 14 years of age must be able to read and write some language, but it must also provide that the aged parents and grandparents of admissible immigrants may accompany or be sent for by such immigrants. Immigration, which fell off during the depression of 1894, is rapidly increasing, the number for the fiscal year 1896 being 343,267, or one-third larger than last year. The total percentage of illiteracy for the year among immigrants was 29, against 20 percent for 1895. The educational test bill has been selected after several years of discussion as the most rational and effective method of restriction.

"It has the support of nearly all the chambers of commerce, labor organizations and associations for the promotion of immigration into the western states and of the immigration restriction league, which has made a special study of the matter. It is understood that the only opposition comes from steamship lines, who are peculiarly interested in bringing all the immigrants possible, no matter how degraded they may be. There is a good prospect that the Senate will pass the Lodge bill in some form at once and as the House has already endorsed the educational test by a vote of 195 to 26, the measure seems likely to become a law at an early day."

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The Document Completed on Saturday for Presentation.

Washington, Dec. 5. Col. W. H. Cook, disbursing clerk of the White House, will leave this city tomorrow afternoon charged with the duty of distributing the message to the press so that it can be published in the great newspapers of the country contemporaneously with its delivery in Congress.

President Cleveland completed the preparation of the message to Congress today. He had a consultation with Secretary Olney in the morning in relation to the treatment of foreign relations.

This portion of the message is always left open till the last, inasmuch as the secretary of state is the only cabinet officer who has not the right of making a report directly to Congress and at the final moment there is always liable to be a change in the attitude of our relations with other governments which may necessitate a change in the text of the message. The government printer will complete the printed copy intended for the press and individual members of Congress by tomorrow morning. The present message is understood to make nearly 15,000 words.

MR. BAYARD DECLINES

The Proposed English Testimonial With Thanks.

Washington, Dec. 5. Information is received here that Ambassador Bayard, has declined with many thanks the proposed testimonial the London Daily Telegraph suggested should be raised by popular subscription in England as a mark of appreciation of his efforts to preserve good will between the two countries. Mr. Bayard takes the ground that his position as ambassador would prevent his accepting a gift of the kind proposed. This is in accordance with the views the State department held of Mr. Bayard's probable action in the matter.

FATALLY INJURED.

Italian Quarryman Mangled by Dynamite Explosion.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 5. Frederick Dubiczi, Italian quarryman, had both eyes blown out of his head and was otherwise terribly mangled last evening by the premature explosion of a dynamite cartridge in the Bloomfield quarries, in which he was employed as foreman. His injuries are fatal.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Senator Thurston Thinks One Will Be Called.

Washington, Dec. 5. Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, who came direct from Canton, where he had an interview with the President-elect, is strongly of the opinion that an extra session of Congress will be called about the middle of March. He said: "The Dingley bill in its present condition is not the bill now demanded and an effort to amend it along Republican lines during the short session would be impossible. He also said there would be no financial legislation until the Republicans had framed, passed and tested a new tariff law. Senator Thurston expects to see Congress take such action as will result practically in granting the Cuban patriots belligerent rights.

FREE ALCOHOL QUESTION.

The Congressional Committee Hasn't Decided.

Washington, Dec. 5. The members of the joint congressional committee appointed to investigate and report upon the matter of internal revenue regulations with a view of permitting the use of free alcohol in the arts, manufacture and composition of medicinal compositions, returned to-day from New York without having reached any conclusions. By the terms of the resolution under which they were acting the limit within which a report is to be made to Congress expires on Monday next.

If the inquiry is to result in anything definite or valuable, further time must be granted the commission to conclude its work and that will doubtless be asked for and granted early next week. It is understood that a majority of the commission is opposed to any concessions in the desired direction, being made, holding that the risk of the loss of revenue to the government despite the precautions that may be taken are too great to be incurred for the benefits to be derived by the public from the change.

BANK DIRECTORS ESCAPE.

Newfoundland Government Will Drop Cases.

St. Johns, N. F., Dec. 5. In announcing the decision of the supreme court not to try the bank directors Chief Justice Carter to-day stated that he and his colleagues were endorsed in their position by Baron Russell of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England and two of the Lord's justices of appeal to whom he had written for advice. They agreed that it would be highly improper for the local judges to preside at the trial, they being financially interested. As a result the government will probably abandon the cases.

NOTHING FROM WEYLER.

No News of His Whereabouts or Movements.

Given Up His Favorite Occupation of Giving Out Manifestos.

The First Contingent of Reinforcements of Troops Arrived.

Havana, Dec. 6. Three days have elapsed since any news has been received from Captain General Weyler. It is not known what part of the province of Pinar del Rio he is in or what he is doing towards carrying out the plan of campaign on which the loyalists have built high hopes, but which have thus far resulted in no signal success.

Heavy rains have been prevailing lately and it is probable that the condition of the country has put a temporary check on the march of the Spanish forces.

Officials here state that there is nothing surprising in no despatches being received from Gen. Weyler, as he is a man of action rather than words and is waiting to meet the rebels before he devotes any time to the writing of despatches.

General Melquizo reports that his command surprised a rebel hospital in the Valle Hills, province of Pinar Del Rio. Six insurgents, whether wounded or not, it is not stated, were killed, and the dwelling and all camp paraphernalia were destroyed.

The report of this committee will be presented to the general assembly when it meets in May, 1897. An abstract of this report was given out today.

It says in substance: "We feel warranted in appealing to the churches to stand loyally by the work being conducted by the board and urge immediate and liberal contributions to meet the emergency which is just now upon us. We are confident that the interest of the great cause which we all have at heart will be greatly promoted, not only for the present, but for the future, if a generous and immediate response be made."

Two postal clerks and the baggage master were slightly hurt. None of the passengers was injured. An investigation showed that an attempt had been made to wreck the train, as a brake shoe was found firmly wedged in at the point of a split switch.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller. I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at Ara Warren's Drug Store.

The Second Session.

The second session of the Fifty-fourth Congress will convene at noon to-day. This is what is commonly known as the short session, that is it expires by limitation on the fourth of March next. The actual working days are reduced by the usual holiday recess and as a rule anything aside from the regular routine legislation is not looked for as the preparation of the appropriation bills and such work as is absolutely necessary requires all the time at the disposal of Congress.

The chief interest centres in the revenue question. On this point there is a wide difference of opinion among the leaders of Congress. When, at the last session, it was clearly demonstrated that the existing tariff law had proved a dismal failure as a revenue producer, the Republican House, laying aside any question of political consideration, passed what was known as the Dingley bill to meet the emergency. The bill failed in the Senate by a combination of the solid Democratic vote aided by a few silver Republicans who stood opposed to any revenue legislation unless coupled with a free coinage amendment. This bill is still in a position where it can be taken up and passed by the Senate, but the preponderance of opinion is against such action on the part of that body. Mr. Dingley is himself of the opinion that the bill will not pass, although he thinks it should be enacted into law at this session. His idea is that the enactment of the law would supply the needed revenue and at the same time prevent a great influx of foreign goods in anticipation of a revision of the tariff without changing the necessity for a more thorough revision on protection lines when the Republicans are in control of the Administration.

On the other hand a good many Congressmen hold that it will simply be a waste of time to take up this law, which, while it would in no sense afford a solution of the tariff question, would tend to make the more complete revision regarded as necessary to a revival of business industry more difficult. It is also contended that there is no reason to believe that the Senators who opposed the law at the last session would be more favorably disposed towards it now, and if they were it is claimed that the President would intervene with a veto.

While it is impossible to predict just what the decision will be the indications now are that the revenue question will be left for a special session which many think will be called immediately after the inauguration. It is intimated that in case nothing is to be done by the Senate with the Dingley bill, the House Ways and Means Committee could begin on the work of preparing a new tariff bill at this session so as to have it ready for submission very soon after Congress convened in special session. In answer to the argument that a special session would disturb business Chairman Dingley says: "A revision of the tariff upward does not disturb business. It is a revision downward that does that. We were engaged for months in the Fifty-first Congress on the tariff of 1890, and there was no business disturbance then. The disturbance came in 1894 when the schedules were revised downward. But even if there were to be a disturbance is it likely to be less if the uncertainty were to continue until next December?"

The message of the President is awaited with great interest. It is said to be the longest document of the kind on record. At this writing it is expected that it will be delivered to Congress today and if so will be published in full in THE WHIG Tuesday morning.

A Significant Southern Movement.

The News and Courier of Charleston, in South Carolina, has provoked a discussion concerning the text books in United States history proper for use in Southern schools, which indicates a desire and a determination to provide Southern children with instruction in the history of their country that shall be specially adapted to the prejudices of that part of the Union. The demand expressed is for histories that shall treat the war of the rebellion from the Southern point of view, and for those only.

The Charleston journal started the discussion by deploring the apparent indifference of our people to the evil of allowing perverted histories to be employed in the education of our children. Its reference is to the standard text books in United States history, which deal with the civil war in a national rather than a purely sectional spirit. All such histories it would drive out of Southern schools, substituting for them distinctively Southern histories by Southern writers; and, to that end it is seeking to stir up the Confederate Veteran associations to a united effort to induce legislators and school authorities to exclude the "obnoxious books" and replace them with books whose treatment of the rebellious attempt to break up the American Union is Southern in tone and color.

Representatives of those associations, however, write to the South Carolina paper that they need no such provocation, but that the task of keeping alive the old secession spirit has been assumed by them of their own volition and vigorously performed. It seems that the United Confederate Veterans' Historical committee unanimously adopted a report in May of last year which describes the evil fully and strongly, and urges that active steps be taken for its correction. The steps it urges are the exclusion of the "objectionable books" in favor of "histories that are true and just to both sides." The report gives a list of eleven text books which it recommends "without hesitation" as "suitable for present, if not for permanent use." They are all by Southern writers exclusively.

It also announces with gratification that "other school histories are in preparation by Southern authors, which give promise of great excellence." Finally, it calls upon the Veterans' Associations to "provide for carrying into effect the recommendations of this committee," and it seems that the exhortation has been heeded. For instance, the superintendent of a public school in Florence, South Carolina, writes to the News and Courier that, to his horror, he found one of the "obnoxious" Northern histories in use in that school, "and removed it as soon as he could."

It appears, therefore, that there is a concerted and vigorous effort to drive out all Northern histories of the United States from "the families and schools of the South," so that the children in the old secessionist Confederacy shall receive instruction only from those which present a narration and a view favorable ...

and unfair to the South," and to keep up the agitation unceasingly.

That is, this significant movement is for the purpose of controlling the children of the old secession States, to distort history and to distort Southern sentiment particularly. It is a scheme to keep alive the spirit of the "lost cause," and intensify the sectionalism and provincialism of the South by inculcating in each succeeding generation, as it grows up, a sentiment that is distinctively Southern and therefore hostile to that feeling of nationality which is essential to the perpetuity of the republic.

It is accordingly a wholly pernicious movement. Instead of permitting the South to keep step with civilization, the old Confederate South, more than any other part of the American Union, needs to get in line with the progress of civilization. It needs to look ahead instead of wasting vain regrets over the failure a generation ago to break up the republic, in the interest of the barbarous institution of human slavery.

NEWS BY CABLE.

Statement of Project for Russian Occupation of Turkey Denied.

Leadership of Liberal Party Settled—Other Foreign Items.

London, Dec. 5.—(Special cable letter) As was to be expected, denial has followed close upon the statement published by the Daily News to the effect that the six great powers would shortly consider a project the object of which is the occupation by Russia of the northeastern corner of Turkey, formed by the Bosphorus and the Black Sea to about half way down the Bosphorus, which, together with the Dardanelles will be made entirely free to the vessels of all nations. The Daily News added that the forts along the Dardanelles would be dismantled and Abdul Hamid would retire from the sultanate to a field quarters. Here it is declared that the alleged project is an absurd fantasy. The foreign office has heard of no such proposal, and the officials there say it is impossible to understand why a responsible paper should publish such a statement. The truth is that there is still a complete pause in the discussion of the question affecting the Dardanelles. When the matter is reopened Lord Salisbury will not admit of any change in his contention that whatever rights in the straits have been obtained by Russia must be extended to all the powers.

Since the despatches of the United Associated Presses in November announced the beginning of the agitation in favor of the West Indies sugar industry the matter has acquired large political interests in England and bids fair to become an initiative towards the revival of protectionism. The commission of inquiry proposed by the government is held on all sides as a mere staving off a subject which demands urgent settlement. In ministerial circles the agitation is not at all relished.

The ministers know that an increasing body of their supporters are eager to seize the decay of the colonial sugar industry as leverage towards a revival of protection generally. Lord Salisbury, while the last Conservative government was in power declared in favor of what was termed "reciprocity" of some system countervailing duties which would check the destructive influence in foreign countries upon the colonial product.

It will be recalled that the London conference presided over by Baron Henry De Worms, now Lord Pirbright, discussed this question of reciprocity and after long sittings arrived at no conclusion, giving a remote indication of how to balance the conflicting interests. Now that the foreign bounty system threatens absolute extinction of colonial sugar trade the Conservatives want decisive legislative action. The predictions on English free trade quarters that the European countries would get tired of paying bounties to give England cheap sugar are proving false. The fear is felt at once the extinction of British colonial sugar products is accomplished the British consumer will find himself in the power of continental rings which will raise prices at their will.

The question has become so acute and interesting with far-reaching possibilities of an alteration in the English commercial policy that the representative of the United Associated Presses has felt it advisable to interview some of the chief men concerned in the agitation.

Talk of Placing a Duty on Sugar.

Mr. T. L. Ohlsen, secretary of the West India committee, stated that one of the recommendations of the government commission was sure to be the placing of a duty of two pounds per ton on all foreign sugar imported into England. The chief consideration of the commission would be remedial measures for the distress in the West Indies and connected therewith the granting of imperial loans administered through the local governments on certain conditions of interest, etc., to planters for improving their estates. The West Indies commission were in constant communication with the government urging it to call a conference and had reasonable hopes that the influence of Mr. Chamberlain would be exerted on their behalf. The committee were also in communication with prominent foreign politicians and commercial bodies.

Regarding the question of the annexation of the British West Indies to the United States Mr. Ohlsen said he knew that among the planters there was a strong feeling that they would be better treated if absorbed by the United States.

Touching this subject of annexation, Mr. Nevile Lubbock, when interviewed, said if the West Indies were to be ruined and England was determined to have her cheap sugar, leaving the West Indies to starvation, there was certain to be much rioting and bloodshed. The educated classes, grocers and others whose money and interests were in the islands were nearly all patriotic Englishmen. But there was an increasing feeling among them that in the event of the refusal of England to assist there was but one alternative—the annexation of the islands to the United States.

They would prefer to remain English if they could but not at the cost of financial ruin. The United States would not allow an industry so valuable to the American people to be destroyed and when the time came for the West Indian colonies of Great Britain to be taken over by the United States, it could not be a question of purchase by the United States, as the colonies seemed to be worth nothing to England, she could not offer to sell, but must give them to the United States.

West Indies sugar entering the United States duty free would suit the American people and restore the finances of the islands to a flourishing condition within a few years.

Leadership of the Liberals.

It is a pretty well established fact that the question of the leadership of the Liberal party has been settled. Sir William Vernon Harcourt is now the recognized chief. The English papers, mostly Conservative which predict the reappearance of Lord Rosebery as leader are thoroughly at fault. Lord Carrington, who seemed to speak with authority about Lord Rosebery's reassumption, has not only been contradicted by Rosebery's intimates but is known to have no sanction whatever from his lordship.

The current stories in the English papers, of a shortly to be published correspondence between Harcourt, Rosebery and others, are much exaggerated. Throughout Lord Rosebery has taken the course of honorable reticence in the interests of the Liberal party.

American Oil Not Up to Standard.

Immediately parliament resumes, the select committee on the petroleum trade will take the American evidence. The American oil trust witnesses should be here by the last week in January. The American view has not been set forth in a circulation, the main argument of which is that accidents arise through the explosive quality of the oils than defects in the lamps.

This opinion is supported by scientists, American and English, who have been already and will be examined. But there is an opposing body of scientific witnesses who hold that though the lamps may be faulty, the oils are so also and that the point of inflammability must be raised.

Japan and the Philippines.

The Japanese embassy officials here deem the stories in Spanish papers about the secret intervention of Japan in the Philippines as mere guess work based upon articles in the Japanese newspapers urging the acquisition of the Philippines after the settlement of Formosa.

The embassy may not be in a position to know what the design of their government are and in view of the fact that two Japanese warships have recently appeared at Manila and that war materials ... to the insurgents through Japanese agents the suspicion regarding Japan's secret action is rather accentuated.

Personal Matters.

The condition of Mr. James R. Roosevelt secretary of the American embassy, who was recently attacked with nervous prostration, continues to improve. He will shortly start on leave of absence for Egypt where it is hoped the climate will assist to his complete recovery.

It is expected that Sir John Willoughby, Hon. Robert White, Col. Grey, Col. Balance of Trade in Our Favor.

London, Dec. 5.—The Statist in an article reviewing the financial situation, says: "The prospect of an influx of gold from the United States is less assured, the balance of trade continuing to favor America. The cheapness of money in New York as compared with the rates in London also prevents shipments. Exchange houses are making considerable profit in selling exchange upon New York to pay for produce purchased in Europe, while at the same time borrowing money in New York to pay their drafts.

"When the balance of trade turns, the arbitrage houses will liquidate their loans in New York instead of sending the gold. The balance of trade will remain in favor of the United States much longer than usual."

THE WAR IN CUBA.

President's Message Awaited with Much Anxiety on the Island.

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—A letter signed by the committee appointed at the recent meeting of Cuban sympathisers, held in this city on the 21st ult., and asking for the recognition of the Cuban belligerents, has been mailed to the President. It bears the signatures of Hon. David R. Francis, lieutenant governor of Missouri, Capt. Rosser Roemer, who took a prominent position in the Confederate army, Juan Cabill, editor of the Pan-American and El Commercio del Valle, and Juan ...

The letter says that the struggle in Cuba has degenerated into a merciless system of extermination of the patriots by the Spanish government and concludes as follows:

"In a spirit of Christian charity we appeal to you in the name of humanity and American intelligence to make effective the repeatedly expressed will of the vast majority of your fellow citizens by granting to the Cuban people the rights of belligerents, which we think will at once modify the conditions of this war and tend to speedy termination."

Letter from Cuban Lieutenant.

Whitfield, Mass., Dec. 5.—Letters were received here today by A. B. Sexton, detective Sheldon and others from Charles E. Bader formerly of this place, now a lieutenant in the Cuban army. Mr. Lane says that all his stock and his money in sugar and tobacco plants, which are now worthless, having been destroyed by the Spaniards.

Lane had a company of 50 men consisting of Texan cowboys and he fought in engagements. He says the only thing the Cubans need to gain their independence is money. The people of the island are anxiously waiting President Cleveland's message.

Guanabacoa is next to Havana, the largest and most important town in the province.

The man who has been struck by a locomotive and is picked up alive and carried on by the cow-catcher has had a miraculous escape. The man who through neglect has sacrificed his health and wrecked his body, and through the merits of a medicine is picked up alive and restored to health has had an almost equally wonderful experience. There are thousands of men who have for years overworked themselves to the neglect of their health and then when utterly wrecked in body and shattered in nerve have been picked up and restored to health by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It is a marvelous remedy that corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver, and fills the blood with the life-giving elements that build new flesh and muscle. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption and is a specific for diseases due to disorders of the digestion or imperfect nutrition. Druggists sell it.

"Myself and wife," writes Mr. H. G. Adams, of Turners Station, Henry Co., Ky., "have taken five bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery and Favorite Prescription." The medicines are good. We can't say too much for curing both of us. My wife persuaded me to quit the doctor here and try one bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so, and I thank God for it. I have recommended it highly to many of my neighbors. I tell them that if it did not do them one dollar's worth of good that I would pay ...

"I will give you a little statement of my own case. I was emaciated, could hardly get up in the morning, never got a whole night's sleep, was ... had a tight feeling in the stomach ... and was restless. I would throw up my food, and had numerous other ailments which I have no time to write about now. I now feel better and look better than ever before in my life."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the surest, safest, quickest cure for constipation. They never gripe. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Substitutes are sometimes dangerous, and always cause discomfort.

FIFTY PERSONS INJURED.

Something Snapped and a Car Dashed Down the Hill.

New York, Dec. 5.—Duffy's Hill, a steep incline extending from 102nd to 103rd street on Lexington Avenue, was the scene of a cable car smash-up last night in which 50 persons were injured or shaken up. In the excitement that followed the collision most of the injured hastened to their homes. Although none of the injured went to the hospital they were all in need of medical attendance.

Three cars were in the smash-up and one of them was nearly wrecked. To add to the excitement a gas tank beneath one of the cars exploded.

A cable car with about 25 passengers had got about half way up the hill, when something snapped. The grip wheel whirled around in spite of the gripman, and the car started backward. The brakes would not work and by the time the foot of the hill was reached on the descent the car was going at a frightful rate.

Half a block away another car was coming along bound south. There was a terrific crash when the two cars came together. The momentum of the first car was so great that it carried the other car along with it.

A third car was leaving the terminus and into this car ran the two others. There was another crash and the cars came to a stand still. While the passengers were yet crying for help there was suddenly the report of an explosion and the lights in one car went out. The gas tank that supplied the lighting material had exploded and the machinery beneath the car was blown in all directions. So far as known no one was dangerously injured.

LEAKY GAS PIPE

Causes Death of Three Colored People in Boston.

Boston, Dec. 5.—Sophia Lawrence aged 60, Sarah Lawrence aged 40, and a lodger named Sawyer, all colored people, were found dead in the house at 38 Newcomb street, Roxbury, this morning. The cause of the deaths was leaking gas pipes. Three members of Geo. Curran's family in the next house and a boarder named R. H. Thomas were found under the influence of the gas and taken out by police in season to save their lives.

In neither of the two houses in which the inmates were affected is the gas connected, but though each is a strong odor of it. It is thought that the gas escaped from a defective main, had percolated through the dirt and following the disconnected mains and possibly to the pipe had made its way into the houses and spread through the rooms after the occupants had retired because previous to this morning there had been little or no odor.

That the gas escaped first into the tenement at 37 is evident from the fact that in the basement where the gas had been removed, there is still a strong odor apparent. It was over two years ago that the gas was shut off from the tenement where the fatality occurred.

The first intimation that anything was wrong was at 6 o'clock this morning when Mrs. Curran, who occupied the front room of the second floor of her tenement attempted to arise. She felt overcome but did not at that time smell gas. She spoke to her daughter, who was sleeping with her and noticed that she was apparently unconscious. Mrs. Curran went to a window and called for help which quickly arrived.

The windows of the dwelling were opened and a search began. On the second floor John Berson's room and he had been somewhat affected but was able to help himself to a certain extent, as was also the other members of the family although they were quite weak.

The members of this family being past the danger point it was suggested that possibly the family next door might also be suffering from the same cause, and the rescuers found matters in a more horrible condition than at the former place.

Mrs. Lawrence and her daughter occupied the room on the third floor back and both were in bed but there was evidence that a fierce struggle had been made for life. A small stove had been detached from the pipe and was partially turned around, while the clothes of the bed were in different parts of the room and some of the furniture overturned. Mrs. Lawrence was breathing when found and was immediately moved to the front room below and a physician summoned, but before he arrived the woman had died.

Mrs. Lawrence's daughter was in the bed dead. Samuel Sawyer was found in the toilet room dead. In going to the room he apparently added to his own jeopardy, because it was at this point that the gas was penetrating the house in volume. The house is used as a mission and is in charge of Mrs. Lawrence. For several years she had lived there during the time Mr. Sawyer had been her assistant in conducting the work.

A lamp was found burning in the front hall and one in Mrs. Lawrence's room and the matter to the police seems to be that there was not an explosion, the air being so heavy charged with gas.

It seems that early this morning Sam'l Sawyer, the dead man, summoned Dr. John ... Dowling, a reputable physician at 183d Washington street, to Mrs. Lawrence's house, her little daughter being ill. Sawyer did not wait for the doctor to dress but returned to the house.

As the physician was going down Newcomb street he saw Sawyer apparently fumbling with his key in the door and came to the conclusion that the man was drunk, whereupon Dr. Dowling turned back and did not go to the house. It is now apparent that Sawyer was under the influence of the gas at the time and was unable to help himself or the other people.

CORONER INVESTIGATING

The Wreck on the New London and Northern Road.

Willimantic, Ct., Dec. 5.—Coroner Phelps this morning investigated the wreck on the New London and Northern road, which occurred near Eagleville last night, and resulted in the killing of three men, and decided that it was caused by the explosion of the boiler of the engine.

What caused the explosion will probably never be known. The most likely theory is that the stay bolts holding the boiler plates together were weak and gave way under the extra heavy pressure of steam.

The condition of the engine and tender indicate that the force of the explosion was downward, wrecking the running gear, but the engine kept on the track, in a distance of about 200 feet before it got caught in the ties and turned a somersault down an embankment. Under ... fragments of the grate, and other parts of the engine including the head light were scattered in the fields a distance of 100 yards from the point where the explosion is supposed to have occurred.

Engineer Hall apparently jumped or was thrown from the engine the moment of the explosion. Fireman Hall remained on the engine until it turned over down the bank when he was thrown 50 feet ahead of it on the track striking on his death. Brakeman Thomas must have been thrown from the top of a car when the pile up occurred.

Twelve cars are so badly smashed that wrecking crews are rolling them down the bank to be unloaded and burned. A large gang is relaying the road bed, and the track and it is expected that traffic will be resumed tonight. After examination by the coroner the bodies of the victims were turned over to undertakers and sent today to their home in Vermont.

Though all the cars were loaded the loss by freight destroyed is not large but is great in the destruction of rolling stock. The engine is said to have been in use about ten years and was apparently in good condition.

TWO NEW GUNBOATS.

Ten Thousand People Witnessed the Event—Description of the Vessels.

Bath, Dec. 5.—Ten thousand people witnessed the twin launching at the Bath Iron Works today. Fifty people from Newport including the mayor and aldermen, Mayor Trowbridge of Vicksburg, and 100 Bath citizens occupied gaily draped stands.

At 12.15 the workmen began wedging up and at 12.20 the Vicksburg began to slide from the ways. Miss Addie Trowbridge of Vicksburg, broke the ribbon covered champagne bottle on the stern saying, "I christen the Vicksburg and may your history be as memorable as that of your namesake."

The Vicksburg slid slowly down the ways and gradually took the plunge. The workmen at once went to the Newport and at 12.58 the cry "there she goes" arose. Miss LaFarge of Newport, granddaughter of Commodore Perry, broke the champagne bottle and christened the boat Newport.

The Newport delegation gave three cheers for the gunboat and three for Miss LaFarge. The second boat made a swifter slide and a more graceful plunge. The whistles of the city blew in a deafening manner during both launchings. From the yard 150 guests went to the draughting offices of the works and enjoyed a lunch.

The Newport contingent depart on the 5.10 train. This morning the guests were given a ride about the city by the mayor. The latter is entertaining Mayor Trowbridge and daughter.

This is the first time on record of a simultaneous launching of two men of war.

Description of the Vessels

These gunboats are of what is known as composite construction, the entire frame of steel, and above the water each is plated with steel and planked below. The planking is covered with copper, the advantage of this over steel being that the vessel will not need docking for years and may make uninterrupted cruises of seven or eight years.

Each has three full decks running the entire length of the vessels. The length over all is 200 feet and 168 feet between perpendiculars. The beam between mouldings is 35 feet 5 inches and extreme beam 36 feet. The mean draught is 12 feet and the displacement 1,000 tons.

As compared with the Machias and Castine, these new boats are 22 feet shorter, four feet wider and of the same displacement. The rig is that of a barkentine and the area of the nine plain sails will be 11,500 feet. The bow is similar to that of the Eleanor, but as all ... forward is necessary to carry much canvas, and the ram of a gunboat is not of very great use.

The armament consists of 6 four-inch rapid fire breech loading rifles, four six-pound rapid fire guns and two one-pounders. One four-inch gun will be mounted on the spar deck forward and one aft, with two on each side of the gun deck amidships. The six-pounders are mounted ... each side forward, one on each side amidships and one one-pounder on each side aft. There will be no gun sponsons.

For boats, each gunboat will carry one 28 feet steam launch, one 28-feet cutter, two 26-feet cutters, one 28-feet whaleboat, one 28-feet gig and one 16-feet dingy.

On the lower deck is a general store room, over the trimming tank forward. Aft of this is a 40-feet berthing space the width of the ship, a dynamo room on the port side and prison and ordnance store room to starboard. Still farther aft come the boiler and engine rooms completely surrounded by the coal bunkers. Then comes the ward room with eight state rooms.

The ward room is 38 feet long, finished in cherry and ash polished, and, it ... with cushioned seats and extension tables. The extreme stern is occupied by store room and steam steering gear. The ... deck is an open deck only interrupted by the Hyde steam windlass which was among the government specifications, the galley, the engine and fire room hatches, the hospital and dispensary. Way aft on this deck are the captain's cabin, state room, office, bath room and pantry, and the quarters of executive and navigating officers and armory.

The spar deck is open and runs the full length of the craft. Forward is the pilot house, finished in mahogany, and a bridge extending from the pilot house to each side of the boat.

The boilers are of Scotch type, two in number, 10 feet wide and six inches long and 6 feet 6 inches in diameter with a working pressure of 160 pounds.

The engine is of the vertical triple expansion type with cylinders 16 inches, 25 inches, and 36 inches in diameter, respectively, and with a 24-inch stroke. Its horse-power is 800, one-half that of the Machias. The engine is very similar. The contract speed is 12 knots with no premium for excess, but with penalty for falling short, but they will be accepted if they make 11 knots.

The coal capacity is 300 tons, giving a radius of 11,000 knots. But as the boats are designed to cruise under sail or four ..., they will not have to recoal ... a year. The total cost will be $160,000.

The contract for these two boats was awarded the Bath Iron Works Nov. 2, 1895. The keels were laid last March. The boats will be ready for ... early next year. Each will carry nine officers, 10 mariners and 125 bluejackets. Their rig will be very heavy and the boats will be very heavy under sail. In upper deck they are much like steam yachts of approved model. Today's launching is said to be the first case on record of the simultaneous launching from the same yard of two duplicate war vessels.

The interior woodwork and deck planking of the gunboats is rendered incombustible and fire proof by chemical process. An entirely new feature in naval construction.

THE Y. M. C. A.

Annual Reports of Secretary Jordan and Treasurer Barrows.

The following are the reports of Secretary R. A. Jordan and Treasurer G. W. E. Barrows, of the Y. M. C. A., read at the anniversary exercises Sunday afternoon at the First Parish church:

Mr. President, members and friends of the Bangor Young Men's Christian Association:

In presenting our sixteenth annual report I do so with gratitude to God and to the men and women who have made possible by their generous support the good we may have accomplished.

For 365 days in the year the doors of the Bangor Association have swung wide open, welcoming men of all classes and conditions, with a daily average of 100 accepting our cordial invitation. This great number have come to us for a variety of purposes. We have had to devise ways of helping all kinds of men and of helping men in all kinds of ways.

For the socially inclined besides the Amusement room with its games, the cheery parlor, the piano and other music, we have had nine socials.

For the studious class, besides our Reading Room, with a daily average of 150, we have had seven branches taught in our night school, with an enrollment of 83 men, these classes being held six months in the year.

For the unemployed in need of work, we have found places of employment for fifty.

For the stranger coming to the city in need of a respectable boarding place, we have helped 37 to homes of this kind.

For the deserving destitute, we have furnished food, shelter, clothing and transportation to hundreds of this class.

Our well equipped Gymnasium, with the baths, bowling alleys and its competent physical director, C. M. Barsley, is an attractive and helpful place for Bangor young men who are athletically inclined.

Our sailors' committee have visited the vessels in port and left hundreds of pieces of good literature, with cordial invitations for the men on board ship to make our home theirs while in the city. Their presence and appreciative words from time to time lead us to believe this work is not lost.

Horace Bushnell once said, "The soul of all improvement is the improvement of the soul." This being the spirit that animates all our work we have sought to help men who have come in contact with us to a higher type of manhood by a manly acceptance of Jesus Christ as Saviour.

Beside our Bible classes for the help of men along the line of Christian work, we have held our Sunday meetings, with an attendance of 5,256 men. In these meetings many have requested prayer, and 20 men have expressed their desire and purpose to commence a Christian life. During July and August an open air meeting was held, well attended, helpful and interesting.

For our deaf and dumb young men we have our regular Sunday afternoon Bible class, taught by one of their own number, Mr. A. H. Carlisle, who is also one of our most helpful members.

To keep the young men from evil is much better than to rescue him after he has gone astray. If we can save the boy we have saved the young man, hence our Boys' Department, so full of promise for the future of our great city, which now numbers 100 boys between the ages of 12 and 16 years.

Our Association membership (not including the boys) is over 400, and with the promise of good times is rapidly approaching the 500 mark, which we hope to see by January, '97. In this number is included black and white, rich and poor, Christian and infidel, Catholic and Protestant, all coming together under one roof either to get good or to do good.

Our financial condition is not all we could wish and for the first time in years we find ourselves unable to close the year with all bills paid, the net amount of outstanding liabilities being about $400. That this is not the fault of the officers is shown by the fact that the expenditures have been $500 less than the amount appropriated, the most rigid economy having been practiced from the commencement to the close of the year. For further particulars concerning our financial standing we would refer you to our treasurer's condensed report, as follows:

Treasurer's Report.

Accounts were audited and securities examined and certified to as correctly stated, Nov. 19, 1896, by Frank L. Goodwin and George H. Hopkins, Auditors.

Our endowment fund has grown from $4,200 to $10,650. $1,000 was the third donation of this amount from one who has done so much for us in the past, Mrs. Priscilla A. Blake; $1,000 also came through the renewed generosity of the Hon. Edward H. Blake, this being in addition to $1,000 previously given by this gentleman; we have also received $1,000 from Rev. G. W. and Lucy H. Field, also $1,000 to be known as the J. M. and Harriett A. Daggett fund; also $1,000 to be known as the Abram Moor fund and $450 from the estate of Julia A. Moor, and $1,000 from the estate of John F. Colby.

This increase is most gratifying and shows that our benevolent people see the importance of our being put on a sound financial basis by a permanent endowment fund, as are the other benevolent institutions of the city. Our present Endowment Roll of Honor contains the following names:

Mrs. Priscilla A. Blake.
Mr. F. S. Johnson.
Mrs. Isabella G. Andrews.
Mr. John McNamara.
Mr. Abram Moor.
Mrs. Julia A. Moor.
Mr. George W. Field.
Mrs. Lucy H. Field.
Mr. Edward H. Blake.
Mr. John F. Colby.
Mr. J. M. Daggett.
Mrs. Harriett A. Daggett.

In the death of Mr. J. M. Daggett, who died early in the year, we have lost one of our warmest and best friends. He was not only ready to help financially, but always had a hearty word of encouragement and good cheer. He was especially interested in young men, and many a young man has reason to be grateful, not only for material help at a critical time, but for the warm words of encouragement and the life of James M. Daggett.

This brief review of the past year's work would be most incomplete did I close without acknowledging the help that has come to us from Almighty God, and from those who by their gifts have made it possible that this work so dear to Him should be carried on.

I would also express our gratitude to the Woman's Auxiliary, whose devotion has always been so helpful in every time of need. Also to the officers and committee men who have given so liberally of their time and energy, and to the musical and literary people who have always been ready with their talent to assist us. We would also thank the pastors, who both privately and publicly are ever ready to advance the interests of the Association work. We would especially thank the press for its almost daily aid and warm interest. With their aid most things are possible—without it the best of causes must lag.

In closing, as we look back over the year that is past and think of the thousands of young men and boys who have had a safe place of refuge during their leisure time, who otherwise must have been exposed to temptation, as we think of the hungry, destitute, sick, unemployed, discouraged, tempted and fallen young men with whom we have come in contact, we can but feel that the work is worth doing, and we ask in the name of Him who has said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me," and for the sake of Him who though He was rich, yet for our sakes became poor, that we through His poverty might be made rich, for a continuance of your prayers, sympathy, and financial support.

Respectfully submitted,
R. A. JORDAN,
General Secretary.

Former Bangor Man Meets with Serious Loss by Fire.

Androscoggin.

A remarkable family has taken up its abode in the woods on the bank of the river just above Barkerville, Lewiston, and from appearances intend to pass the winter there, says the Journal. The first that was known of them was when a reporter was up there about a month ago, looking up a story to the effect that a suit of clothes had been found on the bank of the river. He came upon the camp suddenly while it was in the process of construction. At that time the log hut was about half done and was being built of rough logs. Before the door was strung a quarter of some animal, probably a sheep, nicely dressed and suspended from the trees. The only occupants of the neighborhood were a young man and woman. They refused to talk but said that it was their intention to live in the log cabin then being built, and to hunt and trap for a living the coming winter. The other day after a particularly cold morning the reporter went up there to see if they had been frozen out or had been frozen up, and when he came in sight of the cabin he heard the sound of a woman's voice singing right blithely, and saw the blue smoke curling up from the barrel chimney of the little abode. When the door was opened in answer to the knock, the woman who stood there laughed before she spoke. So the writer supposes that they fare well, at least. She invited us in and placed a chair for us before the smouldering fire, of ... sticks and knots that warms the hut. They refused again, good naturedly though, to tell what they were camping out for. The hut had been banked up on the outside and was quite warm. The man had collected a lot of wood, most of it fallen limbs, and there was a lot of bedding before the fire drying. The man said that his wife did her cooking before the fire in the old-fashioned way, and that they fared royally. He seemed to know the names and habits of all the Maine birds, and said that a lonely crow was making his home in the woods down by Libby & Dingley's dam and that he had seen and shot many ducks during the fall. They seem to be having a good time, and as the man said, "Whose business is it?"

Ellsworth American: Rev. W. R. Hunt has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Unitarian church in this city, which has been without a pastor for the past year. He announced his acceptance from the pulpit last Sunday after his morning sermon. He outlined briefly the position he thought the church should occupy in a community—that it should lead, not follow. He asked the co-operation of the members of the church here in the work to be done. Mr. Hunt has occupied the pulpit of the church here for several Sundays past and the impression he has made has certainly been most favorable. Prominent members of the Unitarian society feel that the society is to be congratulated on securing Mr. Hunt as pastor.

A number of Rockland's leading musical people have formed an organization, under the name of the Rockland Concert company. W. F. Tibbetts, manager. This consists of an orchestra, male quartet, vocal and instrumental soloists. The orchestra consists of eight pieces under the leadership of Prof. D. W. Clark. The male quartet is composed of J. Frank McNeil, 1st tenor; E. F. Barry, 1st bass; W. F. Tibbetts, 2d tenor; and George E. Torrey, 2d bass. With one exception the quartet is made up of the original Lipsa quartet, which met with great success in years past.

Rock and State Commander Carver has returned from an inspection trip to posts at Winterport, Castine, Bucksport, Monroe, Brooks and Belfast. He also visited the Searsport post. He was royally received and enjoyed the trip highly. He goes Saturday to Vinalhaven to inspect Lafayette Carver post and Monday evening to Camden to inspect Cobb post. Next Wednesday by special invitation he will attend the campfire and banquet of Burns post at Augusta.

The Pacific Commercial Advertiser of Nov. 12, contains the following item regarding a former Rockland and Bangor newspaper man: "Shortly after 11 o'clock last night an alarm of fire was sounded from Waikiki, and before the engine could reach the spot a cottage on the Hebron lot, Waikiki, occupied by Wallace R. Farrington and wife, and Mrs. S. C. Crane, mother of Mrs. Farrington, was burned to the ground. Mr. Farrington, with his family, had just left the theatre and were in the Advertiser office when the alarm sounded, but, owing to the bad telephone service, it was impossible for them to learn whether or their home was the one burning or not. But as feared, they drove out and found nothing but a pile of ruins. All of their wedding clothing, gifts, in fact everything but what they wore to the theater, was destroyed. The house and furniture belonged to Mrs. T. G. Holbrook."

In an old trunk in Wiscasset there has recently been discovered a bit of the arras snipped from the hangings in the closet in Holyrood House where Queen Mary was supping with Rizzio when surprised by Lord Darnley. The relic was secured by a lady connected with one of the old Wiscasset families when she visited England in September, 1816. It was ... enwrapped in a paper yellow with age and though the fabric is much faded it is evident that it was beautiful once.

The Pepperell and Laconia mills are to petition the Maine legislature for the privilege of increasing its capital and stock, the former to $2,500,000, and the latter to $2,250,000, the object being to purchase and hold any real estate, essential or convenient for their business, and carry on business elsewhere than in Biddeford or Saco. The corporation officials are reticent, but it is believed the companies contemplate operating branch plants in the south.

LORD & BRAGDON'S

Our motto now and always will be the best goods for the money as well as the most goods for the money.

LORD & BRAGDON.

The great, we might say the almost unexpected success of our sale the past week has convinced us of two things: First, that the people of Bangor and vicinity appreciate a good thing when they see it, and secondly that goods can be moved even in these hard times if the inducements offered are great enough. We may add that it has also proved what we already knew, namely, that the public has confidence in us. They know that we never advertise bargains unless we have the goods to deliver. They know that every word in an advertisement over our names will be found upon examination to be strictly true. They know that we never misrepresent facts, goods, or prices. So great has been the success attending our past efforts that we have decided to continue our sale another week, and thoroughly clean up the goods we wished to sell. Some of the lots are pretty well closed, but we still have many, most desirable bargains to offer. We mention below a few of the many "good things" which we offer for the coming week:

Seven people were baptized Sunday afternoon at the Essex street Free Baptist church by the pastor. These with others coming by letter and profession of faith were received into church membership at the Evangelistic service in the evening.

The attorney who attempted to wrestle with the accounts of an Eastport grocer decided that he would forego his fee if the client would spend the money in a business college. It was disheartening to look over the pages and find such charges as goods delivered to "the red headed lady with Mrs. ——," and another to "the slim man from Campobello," and again to "the cross eyed man who works in —— factory."

Mr. C. H. Nelson, the well known horseman, of Waterville, and a party of friends, consisting of Messrs. G. R. and F. G. Hall, Harry Playle and C. E. Washburn, of Boston, were in the city Saturday on their return home from a hunting trip in the region around Jackman. Each got two deer, with the exception of Mr. Nelson. The party has been in the woods for some time and had a pleasant trip. Mr. G. R. Hall is a son of the proprietor of the Adams House, Boston.

Mr. H. O. Miller has made some extensive improvements at the East Side drug store which give him much more room and increased facilities for business. The store in the rear formerly occupied by Mr. John Neal has been made into a part of Mr. Miller's store, the prescription case has been moved back and the new space gives a very convenient work room. The cases have been so arranged that the front store has much more room and there are now four windows on the north side, making the store well lighted throughout.

The annual meeting of the Bangor Fuel Society will be held at the office of Hon. B. B. Thatcher, Exchange street, today at 3 p.m., to listen to the report of the treasurer, to elect officers for the ensuing year and to appoint a committee to examine the constitution and by-laws of the society to see if any legislation is necessary to further the interests of the society, and if so, to attend to the same during the coming session of the legislature. All subscribers are considered members of the society.

Now it is Calais where the people are complaining over the prevalence of cigarette smoking among the little lads. As a matter of fact there is no place free from this evil, however remote it may be. The Passamaquoddy brave impotently gazes at visions of vanished greatness in the curling smoke of the deadly cigarette into which the pipe of peace has degenerated and the moonshiner stowed away in some undiscovered nook in the impenetrable wilds of the Smoky mountains tempers the raw edge of his crude corn whiskey with the ten from the burning "coffin nail."

The study class of the Derthick Club will meet at Mr. Moody's room on Main street, on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A full attendance of all members and those wishing to join the club is desired as it is to be decided what oratorios will be rehearsed by the chorus—"The Messiah," "St. Paul," and "Elijah" are under consideration. There will be a rehearsal of "Tannhauser March" and "Spinning Song" on Wednesday evening, under the direction of Mr. S. D. Boardman. The Derthick Club has under consideration the engagement of Mr. F. S. Davenport as director of the chorus.

The following Whitneyville incident, reported in an exchange, may excite different emotions in different people. But we think that all will agree that the worthy blacksmith's fall, if fall it was, will not be wholly without excuse for it was by reason of the importunities of the doctors and the clergy that he was for once induced to forget the early teachings of his mother and break the Sabbath by shoeing horses. The job was performed ostensibly for the former, that they might save the body, and for the latter, that they might save the soul. Hitherto the blacksmith had been a strict observer.—Kennebec Journal.

Bundles are occasionally left at the postoffice, by the stamp windows, but not often. When they are they are put into the case, provided for notices, etc., and are seldom long unclaimed. In the mail it is a common occurrence for money to be found, escaped from its envelope, and various kinds of merchandise and articles. A pair of false teeth was once found. At intervals reports are made up by the several postmasters and distributed, often enabling one to locate a missing article. The chief cause of carelessness is due to bundles being too loosely tied by strings. This slips off and the package is undone. The wrapper is thus often the means of finding the intended recipient; but more often the two become separated. It makes trouble, if not loss, and one can't be too careful.

John D. Meagher, shipping clerk at the foundry of the Wood & Bishop Company, died suddenly Saturday noon from erysipelas. About two weeks ago Mr. Meagher injured his leg but his case was not considered dangerous until erysipelas developed and up to Saturday morning he was doing well. Then there was a sudden change, affecting his heart and death immediately followed. Mr. Meagher had many friends who will be pained to learn of his death. He was a faithful employe and well liked. Mr. Meagher married Miss Julia Hayes, of this city, who, with four young children, survive him. He also leaves a father and mother and two sisters, Mrs. Harry E. Murphy and Miss Sarah Meagher. The deceased was a member of the A. O. H. and also of the Wood & Bishop Relief Association. He was 33 years of age. The funeral will take place today at 9 a. m.

There was a slight snow storm yesterday morning but it only served to make mud.

A civil service examination for clerks and carriers was taken by six young men at the postoffice Saturday forenoon.

Leroy T. Durham, a civil engineer of Roxbury, Mass., was instantly killed at the Alton station Saturday morning by being struck by a train. He stepped upon the track in front of the express. He was 38 years of age. Durham went there from Monroe, Me., where he has relatives.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Laura McNally was held Sunday afternoon from the residence of Mr. J. Y. Ricker, Rev. John McGaw Foster officiated and the Episcopal choir sang. Mr. G. F. Bryant had charge of the arrangements. The bearers were Gen. J. S. Smith, Mr. C. C. Prescott, Mr. E. F. Dillingham and Mr. W. E. Brown.

Patrolmen Bartlett, Crowley and Reagan on Saturday night arrested Albert Fisher, at Ball's Eye bridge, he and his wife having been accused of assault by Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas, of Glenburn, who had stopped at the bridge to get a horse shod while they were on the way to Glenburn. The four got into an argument which led to the alleged assault. The case will be heard in court to-day.

The funeral of Mary Edith Libby, daughter of Frank A. Libby, assistant engineer of the fire department, occurred at St. John's Catholic church Sunday at 2.30 p. m. The children's choir sang several hymns and Rev. Fr. McSweeney officiated and preached a beautiful and touching sermon. The children of the Sunday school attended in a body, and they with the many friends of the little girl's parents, filled St. John's church. Mr. and Mrs. Libby have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement. The funeral was in charge of Finnigan Bros.

Calais's small amount of game arrived in the city on Saturday. There were eleven deer on the noon train which came from St. John over the Bangor & Aroostook railroad. T. D. Clement brought one to Bangor from Norcross and A. E. Robinson, of Portland, had four from the same place. H. M. Smith and W. W. Phillips, of Brooklyn, N. Y., brought down four deer from Norcross. Two were landed at Oldtown from Mattawamkeag which belonged to G. A. Petty. One of them was pure white. On Friday night's train were four deer. W. E. Frost brought two to Bangor from Moscow and C. T. Libby, of Newport, had two from Norcross.

TRIAL TO-DAY
On the Bangor, Hampden & Winterport Electric Railway.

This afternoon a car will be run over the line of the Bangor, Hampden & Winterport electric railway, which has been completed as far as Sterns' mill, connecting with the Bangor street railway at East Hampden. The car will be one of those of the Public Works Company as the B. H. & W's cars are not yet ready for use.

The officers of the B. H. & W. company do not like the curve which was recently established at the Tin bridge as they say it will be impossible for freight cars to go over it. The curve is in the form of an S and they say that the power cannot be adequately applied to the cars there. They think a straighter line might have been made without detriment to team travel.

It is expected that in about a week regular service will be begun on the new line. One passenger car and several freight cars are nearly completed and will soon arrive here. It is the purpose to run a passenger car every hour from West Market square to Sterns' mill and return. The railroad commissioners are expected to come here in a few days to examine the road and with their approval the line will then be opened.

Spur tracks will run to the mills along the line and they will enable millmen to load the refuse wood, now accumulated about the mills, upon Maine Central cars which can be run over the B. H. & W. line and send it to the pulp mills. It does not pay the millmen to have the wood hauled away by team but by rail it would be somewhat profitable.

Lecture on the X-Rays.

This evening at 8 in the Central church Profs. Robinson and Hutchins, of Bowdoin College, will lecture upon the X-rays and the audience is sure to be a large one. This is not a Central club lecture and tickets of that course are not good for this lecture. Members of the Alliance club may be admitted upon their club tickets. Pupils of the High School will be admitted at reduced rates, the high est price for the evening being but 25 cents. There will be practical demonstrations and the lecture will be one of great interest to all who attend.

Woman's Exchange.

The managers of the Woman's Exchange think the public may be interested in knowing what has been done through the medium of the Exchange during the past year. It is now four years since it was located in its present quarters, 76 Columbia street. Beginning with very little but faith in the success of their undertaking, they look back with gratification to the record of those years, helped as they have been by the patronage of many who are always interested in aiding any project which offers an opportunity for woman to help herself.

Notwithstanding all the competition which they have been obliged to meet they feel that they have not fallen behind in the race—as their records during the past year show that they have paid to consignors $2,830.46.

They hope in time they may equal the Woman's Exchange in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and become self-supporting. That exchange has the enviable record of being the only one in this country which does not have to ask for outside aid, such as this exchange receives from the Patron's list and an occasional entertainment.

The reason of their success is due to the fact that the citizens of Elizabeth take pride in making it so. The assortment of useful and fancy articles for the holiday trade will be as complete and desirable as in the past and the managers would especially call attention to the dainty Armenian work which has been sent to them on sale to aid that unhappy people. For those needing useful articles they have the goods of the Novelty Knitting Co., which makes a specialty of infants' outfits, as well as dressing sacks and lounging robes for ladies. Anyone wishing mittens, stockings, knickerbockers, or knitted articles of that class, can be supplied from stock on hand or made to order.

The domestic department they endeavor to keep up to a high standard, adding delicacies from time to time as the public may demand. Their aim will be in the future as in the past to offer good articles at reasonable prices, and make the Bangor Woman's Exchange the medium for the sale of all kinds of woman's work.

Sixteenth Anniversary Exercises on Sunday Afternoon

Successfully Observed With a Very Interesting Order of Exercises.

Able Address by Mr. H. M. Moore, of Boston.

The sixteenth anniversary of the Bangor Young Men's Christian Association was very successfully observed at the First Congregational church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the occasion being one of the best in the history of the association as it indicated a successful past and great promise for the future.

The Y. M. C. A. is an institution which does a very large measure of good in Bangor and is an association of which the Queen City is proud. Thousands of citizens have an interest in its welfare in one way and another and thoroughly believe in it as an uplifter of young men. The people have long known that the Bangor Y. M. C. A's affairs are in the hands of a thoroughly capable and conscientious board of officers and that its work for young men is far reaching and effective.

Consequently when the anniversary exercises come round the people attend in large numbers and not only show their appreciation of the association by their presence, but make it manifest by a substantial money contribution. Such was again the case this year. The First Parish church was completely filled with quite a number standing and it was very evident that the interest of the people in the Y. M. C. A. is at a high pitch.

President J. G. Blake presided with customary effectiveness.

The first number of the programme was a splendidly rendered selection by Pullen's orchestra and singing by the Moody chorus choir followed, in a tuneful and pleasing manner. The invocation was by Rev. H. E. Foss, of Pine street church. A solo was charmingly sung by Mrs. W. A. Nelson, whose rich contralto voice made a most pleasing impression in a well chosen selection.

Rev. G. B. Ilsley, of the Columbia street church, read the Scriptures, after which Pullen's orchestra gave another choice selection with excellent harmony. Prayer was offered by Rev. C. H. Cutler, of the First Parish church, and the chorus choir and congregation sang another appropriate hymn, after which General Secretary R. A. Jordan read his annual report. It is a most interesting and comprehensive review of the Y. M. C. A. work and shows the excellent results attained for young men. It was given very appreciative attention.

(Secretary Jordan's report will be found in full upon the third page, together with report of Treasurer G. W. E. Barrows.)

Singing by the choir and congregation came after Secretary Jordan's report and President Blake then introduced Mr. H. M. Moore, the prominent Boston business man, to deliver the address. President Blake referred to Mr. Moore as the New England member of the International Y. M. C. A. committee, as a man known the world over to Y. M. C. A. members, and a most generous man and great Y. M. C. A. worker.

Mr. H. M. Moore's Address.

Mr. Moore said that as he listened to the admirable address of Secretary Jordan and heard about the endowment fund he said to himself that the Y. M. C. A. has a hold upon the business men and the women of the city. There are three special agencies at work for the kingdom of the Lord—the Salvation Army, the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and the Young Men's Christian Association. Of these he considered the Y. M. C. A. the best.

The Salvation Army does an effective work among the slums, the Y. P. S. C. E. is reaching the boys and girls, but the Y. M. C. A. is touching the very life blood of the nation, the young men. We ask what is to be the near future of this great land of ours which we love and we receive the reply that it is to be what our young men make it, hence the need of reaching the young men.

In many country towns it is difficult to find young men over 21 years of age because they have gone to the cities and large manufacturing towns to seek their fortune. The cities are the nerve centers of the country, but they are the storm centers as well and thoughtful men are asking what will be the outcome of this massing of the people in the cities. It is a question which concerns us for when we have settled the question of the cities and towns we have settled it for the country.

The Y. M. C. A. is a great factor in settling the question. In places where there are well sustained associations there is a blessing to those places for the young men are being educated to believe in righteousness to work against Tammany Hall and to create a grand citizenship.

Mr. Moore reviewed the beginning of the Y. M. C. A. and referred to the work among the railroad men. In the 186,000 miles of railroads there are 105 Y. M. C. A.'s doing a magnificent work.

In 1876 work was organized among the colored men in the South and it has had great results. In 1877 the marvelous work among the colleges was begun with most pronounced success. It makes a vast difference whether the educated young men go out from the colleges Christians or infidels. From 1870 to 1880, 178 secretaries were placed and 27 buildings were erected. Formerly any men that could be obtained were taken as secretaries but now men of brains are the necessity.

That such might be ready for the work the training school at Springfield, Mass., was established.

Mr. Moore told the audience that they ought to thank God for their secretary, Mr. Jordan, for it was not every place which had such a man as he is. They should also be thankful for such a fine building. No young man can go by it without feeling that it embodies an effort put forth especially for him.

In the next decade 911 secretaries were placed and 178 buildings were erected. To-day there are 315 Y. M. C. A. buildings which cost $17,000,000. The Y. M. C. A. offers recreation without temptation to young men. God has created us social beings and the social element is mighty for weal or woe. The Y. M. C. A. is a safe place to go to; the majority of clubs are not. The Christian home is magnificent but it will not keep the boys indoors every evening for they have social instincts and are bound to go out to meet others.

The Y. M. C. A. gives education for the mind and the educational feature is an especial one in the large cities. Some associations now give diplomas to the members of the class. The Y. M. C. A. offers exercise for the body and it has laid its hand upon the athletes of the country with the result that they are being brought under moral influences. The young men are being trained for better health and no man gets nearer to the young men than the physical instructor.

The association is doing a strong spiritual work and is effectively reaching young men in that respect.

Mr. Moore closed his very able, interesting and impressive address by saying that God had so ordered things that special church work could not be carried on without money and the Bangor Y. M. C. A. needed some which he hoped would be forthcoming at that meeting.

The pledge cards were collected after Mr. Moore's effective appeal and it was found that they and the cash from the contribution amounted to $634, or $150 more than last year at the anniversary exercises. The largest pledge was for $100 and there were numerous $25 and $10 pledges. The entire contributions is much appreciated by the officers and members of the Y. M. C. A. as it indicates increased public approval.

The anniversary exercises came to a close with singing of a hymn by the choir and congregation and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Cutler.

Tecumseh's Young Braves, by Everett T. Tomlinson, author of "Search for Andrew Field, Boy Soldiers of 1812, Boy Officers of 1812, etc. Cloth, illustrated. Being the fourth volume of the War of 1812 series.

Mr. Tomlinson shifts the scene of action in this new volume in the War of 1812 series, taking up the story of the Creek war, bringing his readers into a closer knowledge of one of the bravest of the historical Indian characters. Stories of the Indians, especially that of Tecumseh, have always been of intense interest and become doubly so when presented in this author's attractive style. His treatment of the Indian story is such that the book can be placed in the hands of our young people without a fear that they will be induced to start for the West to emulate the heroic deeds of Old Tippecanoe, and Kit Carson. Price $1.50.

The Rosebud Club by Grace Le Baron. Cloth, illustrated. The Rosebud Club is the conclusion of Mrs. Upham's Hazelwood Stories, and it is a fit companion for the preceding volumes. The Boston Herald says: "Mrs. Upham knows how to use simple language and to think as children think, and to live in the situations which are interesting to them. Her books are free from objectionable features which such writing usually has, and are sure to obtain favor wherever they are read or known." These stories will be read with pleasure by all boys and girls, and older people will enjoy the pathetic and beautiful situations which are presented. Price 75 cents.

Columbian Prize Charades, by Herbert Ingalls, author of The Boston Charades. Price $1.00. The charade is having its day as never before since the art of printing was made known, and this new volume by the author of The Boston Charades will certainly give pleasure to the many who are fond of this kind of entertainment. In the new volume there are one hundred and sixty numbers of this sort of puzzle. Prizes, in a series of ten, are offered to persons more or less successful in recording the solutions. The particulars regarding the competition are given in the book itself. The newer volume gives, in an appendix, the solutions of The Boston Charades.

Protestantism. A study in the Direction of Religious Truth and Christian Unity. By Edward P. Usher, A.M., LL.B. Cloth, $1.50. This volume is really an answer to the question, What is the Christian religion? The author is a Harvard graduate (A.B. 1873, A.M., LL.B. 1880), who has given his leisure time for nearly fifteen years to its preparation. Christianity is set forth not as sacramental or theological or hierarchical, but as purely ethical and spiritual. The author seeks to persuade Christians to give up their prejudices, to forsake their clannish spirit and see religion as it really is. He finds Christianity to be the great and final explanation of human life. He says, "This spiritual explanation of life and of man is so sublime that he who once truly apprehends it will never part with it. Whoever shall once grasp this idea clearly and adequately will feel that the scales have dropped from his eyes, and no human sophistry, however cunning, can ever again dim his vision. The conventional ideas of his past will seem paltry and mean."

On the Staff, by Oliver Optic. Blue and gray, cloth, gold dies, illustrated. This volume is the fourth in the series of The Blue and the Gray—on Land, and carries the hero of the preceding volumes, Dick Lyon, in his new position as a staff officer, into new and fresh fields, and amid scenes of a more stirring nature. The long and rapid march of the army under Buell to the assistance of Grant at Shiloh, the desperate conflict and final victory of Pittsburg Landing, and the march to and siege of Corinth, are all fully described. In these volumes Mr. Adams conveys to the youthful readers of the present day a realistic view of the exciting scenes and events of that memorable national period. The main incidents are historically correct, and Oliver Optic's fascinating fashion of clothing the facts of history in the garb of fiction is here delightfully set forth. Sturdy patriotism is the key-note of the motive of these tales, and the author inculcates in a convincing yet alluring manner the great lessons of honor, duty, and love of country.

They will help to fire the young of the present day with something of the patriotic enthusiasm that thrilled their fathers' hearts during that dark period in the history of their country. Price $1.50.

Four Young Explorers, or Sight Seeing in the Tropics. By Oliver Optic. Cloth, illustrated. The preceding volume of the series left the hero Louis Belgrave, and his friends at Sarawak, in the island of Borneo. The four young men here spent three weeks in hunting, fishing, and adventure, visiting the Dyak villages and learning of the manners and customs of this interesting people, while the rest of the party proceeded in the "Guardian Mother" to Siam. On leaving Borneo the explorers decided to make a trip to Bangkok in the steam launch, where they arrived in safety. From there the reunited party went on to Saigon in French Cochin China, across the China sea, to Manila in the Philippine Islands, and thence to Hong Kong, Shanghai, and Pekin in China. They inspected all the points of interest in the places visited. Amid such new and varied surroundings it would be surprising indeed if the author, with his faculty of making even the commonplace attractive, did not tell an intensely interesting story of adventure as well as give much information in regard to the distant countries through which our friends pass and the strange peoples with whom they are brought in contact. CLOSE OF THE FAIR

After a Gratifying Event Financially and Socially

Masked Party, Play and Dancing On Saturday.

Over $1,500 Will Be Cleared From the Fair.

The fair for the benefit of the Eastern Maine General Hospital which began Thursday came to an end Saturday night with both a well filled treasury and general congratulation for the enjoyment of the social side of the event.

The exact amount which was cleared will probably not be known for several days but it can be safely stated that it will amount to $1,500 at least and possibly more. The amount obtained from the fair and new donations of $1,000 will be of very material aid to the hospital. The gifts referred to were of $500 each and came from Rev. O. W. Field, D. D., and wife. The hospital directors and friends were naturally greatly pleased with the generous donations of so helpful a nature.

With this amount the hospital has received $2,000 in gifts during the past few months. Charles D. Bryant, Esq., gave the directors $200 some time ago, and Mrs. Priscilla A. Blake and Hon. E. H. Blake have presented the hospital with $300.

Saturday afternoon the hall was given up to the children who had a masked dancing party. The little people in large numbers appeared in pretty costumes and had a most happy time dancing over the smooth floor of City Hall. Many of the parents were present and viewed the pleasant scene from the galleries. Miss Mildred Varnum arranged this very successful portion of the fair.

In the evening supper was served to a large number and at 8 o'clock the evening's entertainment was begun with a finely rendered overture by Pullen's orchestra.

"Second Thoughts," a comedietta in one act, by G. C. Herbert, was then presented by the following

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Sir Herbert Mervyn (aged 25) .... Mr. Edwin G. Merrill
The Honorable Helen Clivedon (cousin of Mervyn, aged 18) .... Miss Ethel Stetson
Mrs. MacSharon (widow of rich merchant, aged 35) .... Miss Frances Mason

The play was given with much spirit and commendable histrionic art. It created a full measure of fun and at the same time caused admiration for the effective acting.

Miss Mason's portrayal of "Mrs. MacSharon" was particularly praiseworthy showing a thorough understanding of the requirements of the role and an intelligent interpretation of them in every particular.

Miss Stetson made an exceedingly pleasing impression as "The Hon. Helen Clivedon," being very graceful and effective in word and deed throughout the play.

Mr. Merrill who has had helpful stage work in the Hasty Pudding theatricals at Harvard, demonstrated his ability by assuming the role of "Sir Herbert Mervyn" in a manner which won him the complete commendation of the audience.

Mr. Henry Prentiss made a good stage manager and Mr. H. C. Stetson acted as prompter.

The attendance was very large. At the conclusion of the play the floor was cleared for dancing and hundreds were soon enjoying the terpsichorean exercise, while other hundreds gazed downward upon the animated scene from the galleries. The dancing was greatly enjoyed until midnight when the festivities closed. Pullen's orchestra played splendidly as usual. Mr. H. M. Prentiss was floor manager and the aids were Mr. E. M. Hersey, John R. Mason, Esq., Charles H. Bartlett, Esq., Col. L. K. Stetson, Mr. Henry C. Stetson, Mr. James E. Dunning and Mr. Henry Prentiss.

The Welch Case.

Thomas J. Welch, about whom there has been considerable talk in connection with the insanity of his wife and an accusation of assault upon her made by a Bangor paper, came to the police station Saturday and said that in view of the statements made about him he would give himself up as he desired to have the matter come to trial. Later, after consulting with an attorney, E. G. White, Esq., he decided not to insist upon that and as there was no charge against him the police did not detain him.

Several days ago an application for a warrant for the arrest of Welsh was refused on the ground of insufficient evidence and since then the police have endeavored to secure testimony but were unable to obtain anything of a conclusive nature, so there was nothing for them to do. No incriminating evidence had been brought to the clerk of the Municipal Court on Saturday, the judge being away. Welsh emphatically denies any assault upon his wife and says that her discolored eyes were caused by a fall.

ORDINATION SERVICE.
Timothy Michael Hurley Becomes a Priest.

A special service at St. Mary's Catholic church in this city yesterday was the ordination of Timothy Michael Hurley, of Bangor, to the priesthood. The ceremony of ordination does not often occur elsewhere than in the cathedral of a diocese, the seat of the bishop, but for special reason a departure is sometimes made from the rule, as in this case.

It was the first ordination in the Catholic church that has ever taken place in Bangor. The ceremony took place at 7.30 o'clock in the morning and was largely attended. It consisted of mass and the ordination ceremony. The ordination is a very solemn service and it was performed by Bishop Healy, of Portland. The litany was chanted by Rev. Father Legardeur, of Oldtown.

The following attended the ceremony: Bishop Healey, of Portland; Vicar-General M. C. O'Brien, and Rev. T. J. Mulligan, of Bangor; T. P. Leuhan, of Biddeford, and Rev. Father Legardeur, of Oldtown.

Bishop Healey and the visiting clergy were entertained at dinner at St. Mary's parochial residence by Vicar-General O'Brien in honor of the newly ordained priest.

Rev. Father Hurley is a native of Bangor and it is very gratifying to the members of St. Mary's parish especially, where he has long been esteemed, that he should be ordained. In his boyhood he was an altar boy and since he has studied for the priesthood three years at St. Charles College in Maryland and five years at Montreal. He is highly educated and a young man of much ability.
